NEW COVID-19 RESOURCE PAGE FOR OPERATORS

In order to support Operators, JIG has set up a special COVID-19 resource page on the website, where you can find all related publications and guidance issued by JIG in the past two weeks. To reduce email traffic, all new communications will now be posted on this website page:

This information is also accessible via the yellow ribbon on the home page of the JIG website www.jigonline.com:

Critical Bulletins will be emailed with the attachment in the usual way, however minor updates and new editions will be posted on the COVID-19 web page without communication.

Today, operators can find a new resource - Example Site Status Report - provided by the CP Committee.

Later today we expect a detailed Operations Bulletin giving guidance on operating at reduced volumes, including what measures to take when equipment and facilities are completely taken out of service.

If you are unable to access any of the links or documents within this new page, or if you need assistance with the resources or help interpreting the Standards on subjects that are not covered by the COVID-19 support information, please contact info@jigonline.com
